

Microsoft Elevate America comes to Kentucky!

In cooperation with Microsoft, the Commonwealth of Kentucky is pleased to offer E-Learning courses at no cost to you. The need to increase skills is essential in the current economy. Those individuals out of work can use this time to increase their skills. Workers must continuously improve and modernize their skills to keep up with the changes world of work.

Elevate America vouchers are being distributed through the Education and Workforce Development Cabinet, now to April 27, 2010.

To receive a voucher, you must be a current resident of Kentucky. State Employees are not eligible to participate in the Voucher Program.

To access for a voucher, you will need a computer with internet connection, Office 2007, and a personal email address. You don't need a voucher to access Basic Learning and Window and Office 2007 Basics. Visit <https://kyelevateamerica.ky.gov> to complete an application.

Computer Basics
Beginner—No Voucher
Required

Access basic computer concept and skills; perfect for those new to computers

Business Worker
Intermediate
Voucher Required

Access Microsoft Office 2007 and Windows 2007 Training Certification

Certification Exams
Voucher Required

Take the Exam covering Microsoft Office 2007 Applications

Technical Professional
Advanced—Voucher Required

This voucher is for Advanced Technical Courses Only

No vouchers are available for Technical Professional Exams

Access Microsoft's Technical Professional Library for IT

The Education and Workforce Development Cabinet's participation in the Elevate America initiative is not an endorsement of Microsoft Corporation or its products.